

OUT OF THE "BIG FOUR," DEMOCRATS DO NOT HURRY.

Frank Hiscock No Longer One of the Powers.

Platt Has His Own Name Put on the List.

The new Republican State Committee met for organization at the Fifth Avenue Hotel at 11 o'clock this morning. The hotel corridors were crowded with statesmen, who took the reporters into their confidence and told them the Republicans would surely win.

It took the Committee a very short time to carry out orders. Mr. Platt's slate went through with a rush and by acclamation, except the colored members of the Committee. All the old officers were reelected. Henry C. Chapman, William Brookfield, Chairman Executive Committee; Charles W. Hackett, Treasurer; Samuel Thomas, Secretary; John S. Keltner, Vice-Chairman.

The convention in the sixth District was decided by the election of Robert M. Johnston, Charles Morrison of Brooklyn, who elected as his running mate, Chairman Executive Committee; Charles W. Hackett, Treasurer; Samuel Thomas, Secretary; John S. Keltner, Vice-Chairman.

The convention in the fifth District was decided by the election of Robert M. Johnston, Charles Morrison of Brooklyn, who elected as his running mate, Chairman Executive Committee; Charles W. Hackett, Treasurer; Samuel Thomas, Secretary; John S. Keltner, Vice-Chairman.

The new Executive Committee consists of Charles M. Newins, Cornelius Van Cott, Harry Grasse, W. H. Robinson, J. O. Clark, Jr., W. L. Proctor, W. V. Baker, Jr., L. E. Hunt, Jr., C. W. Hackett, George W. Dyer, Barnard A. Deppen, George W. Aldridge, and John N. Schaeffer.

"Ruth" Simms, who wanted to be member-at-large, had eight friends on the slate. Mr. Platt's name is outside the brevetaries, as Warner Miller was.

Ex-Senator Frank Hiscock, no longer one of them "Big Four," was dropped by Mr. Platt's slate outside the brevetaries, as Warner Miller was.

Rumors of Bondy's Turn-Down To-Morrow's Mass Meeting.

Candidates May Apply.

Republican Committee Now Making Up Its Slate.

Candidates who are looking for the honor of being nominated for office in the Republican city and county ticket should apply to the Republican County Committee.

The Committee held a conference at 3 o'clock this afternoon at their rooms in the Grand Opera-House, for the purpose of making up the slate of candidates for the next election.

The nominations are to be formally made to the County Convention to-morrow evening.

The Committee is looking around for a few more men to fill the various offices, particularly for Sheriff and a half dozen or so of good lawyers to take the nomination for District Attorney. Several names have been mentioned, but the men the Committee are after will not make the sacrifice.

The Committee will name a straight ticket, but wherever they can make a deal with an independent candidate in their interest, they will do it.

The Democratic candidate against Senator Jerome is Joseph Stover, who will be the Tammany candidate against Jerome in the election. The Anti-Slavery Club expects the Anti-Slavery supporters for the candidates for the Assembly in the Thirteenth District.

John F. Barnes, who has professed not to be emulous over the action of the John A. Logan Club of the Third District, is continuing to support Tim Sullivan for Senator.

"Just what we expected," said one of the leaders of the Anti-Slavery Club, "is that the Logans will nominate John F. Barnes against Jerome." The Logans for their endorsement of the candidate for Senator, Patterson, and we see where he stands.

In regularizing Patterson's license paid off all debt. While John H. Brooks, the head of the Anti-Slavery Club, is supporting Patterson for his endorsement, the Brooks, the Americanists, Patterson refused him in new paid in his own coin.

FOR SHERIFF OF HUDSON COUNTY

Delegates Have Different Candidates and All Are Confident.

Delegates met in Hudson County to the Democratic Convention, and voted to nominate a delegate to nominate candidate for Sheriff, but more than one candidate, and it is uncertain who is in the lead. The delegates are divided between Col. John L. Dwyer, of Hudson, ex-Assistant Simon Smith, of Jersey City, Peter J. Murphy, of Hoboken, and Fred Daniels of Union Hill.

Friends of Col. Dwyer say that they are not yet in agreement, and that Daniels' followers are equally confident.

The Federal Reform party, for the first time, has a delegation to the meeting in the Second Presbyterian Church to night in action to secure the nomination of a candidate for Sheriff.

Alfred H. Thompson, a lawyer, and Andrew H. Hart, a doctor, were present, and Andrew was a daughter by his first wife, and Nov. 3, 1881, his second marriage occurred to Naomi Osborne, his wife.

The daughter avers of information and letter that her present stepmother and her first son, Alfred H. Thompson, are now separated, whereby it was agreed that her father should be entrapped in a matrimonial net. Naomi, who had been represented as estranged from her husband, and had been separated from him for a year, was to be married to Hart.

The couple, however, could not be found, and the meeting was adjourned.

The meeting was adjourned, and the Anti-Slavery Club, which had been present, adjourned to meet again on Nov. 3, 1881, his second marriage occurred to Naomi Osborne, his wife.

CONSPIRACY ALLEGED.

MAYNARD'S TACTICS.

Plans Said to Have Been Adopted by His Friends.

The Free Association may be heard from again on Nov. 3, and the Association will hold a meeting at 7 P.M. on that night.

The Anti-Slavery Club, which has been meeting in the Second Presbyterian Church to night in action to secure the nomination of a candidate for Sheriff.

The general market sold off near the beginning of the week, Union Pacific.

The market was dead, and in Reading to 2134 and in Reading to 1678.

Handy & Harmar will ship 50,000 lbs. of flour, J. & W. Morrison & Co., 15,000 cwt., and Zimmerman & Forsby 25,000 cwt. on the New York sailing to-morrow. Hosker, Wood & Co., 15,000 cwt. of sugar on the Maine.

Money on call continued easy at 2 1/2 per cent.

The Union Pacific received a report of the operations of the road from Milwaukee to September 1, as filed in Milwaukee, to show that when they had had a meeting it was immediately said that some startling announcement would follow.

It was said, however, that the directors had transacted nothing but routine business, and that the stockholders were unimpaired. It characterized the decline as a bearish market.

The orders in the aggregate were by no means large, but they were sufficient to give the brokers some excuse to bid higher.

Consolidated Virginia rose from $1.10 to $1.15, and equaled from 50 cents to $1.20. These are the highest favorites in any one stock in the money market. Some of the other shares improved to 25 cents a share.

The closing was a complete list of the stocks.

The bears, "pingat," for Union Pacific, were lively fashion this afternoon, and knocked the stock down to 36. There were rumors of a default by the company on the interest due Dec. 1, and when the market opened it was said that they had held a meeting it was immediately said that some startling announcement would follow.

It was said, however, that the directors had transacted nothing but routine business, and that the stockholders were unimpaired. It characterized the decline as a bearish market.

The orders in the aggregate were by no means large, but they were sufficient to give the brokers some excuse to bid higher.

The bears, "pingat," for Union Pacific,

were lively fashion this afternoon, and knocked the stock down to 36. There were rumors of a default by the company on the interest due Dec. 1, and when the market opened it was said that they had held a meeting it was immediately said that some startling announcement would follow.

It was said, however, that the directors had transacted nothing but routine business, and that the stockholders were unimpaired. It characterized the decline as a bearish market.

The orders in the aggregate were by no means large, but they were sufficient to give the brokers some excuse to bid higher.

The bears, "pingat," for Union Pacific,

were lively fashion this afternoon, and knocked the stock down to 36. There were rumors of a default by the company on the interest due Dec. 1, and when the market opened it was said that they had held a meeting it was immediately said that some startling announcement would follow.

It was said, however, that the directors had transacted nothing but routine business, and that the stockholders were unimpaired. It characterized the decline as a bearish market.

The orders in the aggregate were by no means large, but they were sufficient to give the brokers some excuse to bid higher.

The bears, "pingat," for Union Pacific,

were lively fashion this afternoon, and knocked the stock down to 36. There were rumors of a default by the company on the interest due Dec. 1, and when the market opened it was said that they had held a meeting it was immediately said that some startling announcement would follow.

It was said, however, that the directors had transacted nothing but routine business, and that the stockholders were unimpaired. It characterized the decline as a bearish market.

The orders in the aggregate were by no means large, but they were sufficient to give the brokers some excuse to bid higher.

The bears, "pingat," for Union Pacific,

were lively fashion this afternoon, and knocked the stock down to 36. There were rumors of a default by the company on the interest due Dec. 1, and when the market opened it was said that they had held a meeting it was immediately said that some startling announcement would follow.

It was said, however, that the directors had transacted nothing but routine business, and that the stockholders were unimpaired. It characterized the decline as a bearish market.

The orders in the aggregate were by no means large, but they were sufficient to give the brokers some excuse to bid higher.

The bears, "pingat," for Union Pacific,

were lively fashion this afternoon, and knocked the stock down to 36. There were rumors of a default by the company on the interest due Dec. 1, and when the market opened it was said that they had held a meeting it was immediately said that some startling announcement would follow.

It was said, however, that the directors had transacted nothing but routine business, and that the stockholders were unimpaired. It characterized the decline as a bearish market.

The orders in the aggregate were by no means large, but they were sufficient to give the brokers some excuse to bid higher.

The bears, "pingat," for Union Pacific,

were lively fashion this afternoon, and knocked the stock down to 36. There were rumors of a default by the company on the interest due Dec. 1, and when the market opened it was said that they had held a meeting it was immediately said that some startling announcement would follow.

It was said, however, that the directors had transacted nothing but routine business, and that the stockholders were unimpaired. It characterized the decline as a bearish market.

The orders in the aggregate were by no means large, but they were sufficient to give the brokers some excuse to bid higher.

The bears, "pingat," for Union Pacific,

were lively fashion this afternoon, and knocked the stock down to 36. There were rumors of a default by the company on the interest due Dec. 1, and when the market opened it was said that they had held a meeting it was immediately said that some startling announcement would follow.

It was said, however, that the directors had transacted nothing but routine business, and that the stockholders were unimpaired. It characterized the decline as a bearish market.

The orders in the aggregate were by no means large, but they were sufficient to give the brokers some excuse to bid higher.

The bears, "pingat," for Union Pacific,

were lively fashion this afternoon, and knocked the stock down to 36. There were rumors of a default by the company on the interest due Dec. 1, and when the market opened it was said that they had held a meeting it was immediately said that some startling announcement would follow.

It was said, however, that the directors had transacted nothing but routine business, and that the stockholders were unimpaired. It characterized the decline as a bearish market.

The orders in the aggregate were by no means large, but they were sufficient to give the brokers some excuse to bid higher.

The bears, "pingat," for Union Pacific,

were lively fashion this afternoon, and knocked the stock down to 36. There were rumors of a default by the company on the interest due Dec. 1, and when the market opened it was said that they had held a meeting it was immediately said that some startling announcement would follow.

It was said, however, that the directors had transacted nothing but routine business, and that the stockholders were unimpaired. It characterized the decline as a bearish market.

The orders in the aggregate were by no means large, but they were sufficient to give the brokers some excuse to bid higher.

The bears, "pingat," for Union Pacific,

were lively fashion this afternoon, and knocked the stock down to 36. There were rumors of a default by the company on the interest due Dec. 1, and when the market opened it was said that they had held a meeting it was immediately said that some startling announcement would follow.

It was said, however, that the directors had transacted nothing but routine business, and that the stockholders were unimpaired. It characterized the decline as a bearish market.

The orders in the aggregate were by no means large, but they were sufficient to give the brokers some excuse to bid higher.

The bears, "pingat," for Union Pacific,

were lively fashion this afternoon, and knocked the stock down to 36. There were rumors of a default by the company on the interest due Dec. 1, and when the market opened it was said that they had held a meeting it was immediately said that some startling announcement would follow.

It was said, however, that the directors had transacted nothing but routine business, and that the stockholders were unimpaired. It characterized the decline as a bearish market.

The orders in the aggregate were by no means large, but they were sufficient to give the brokers some excuse to bid higher.

The bears, "pingat," for Union Pacific,

were lively fashion this afternoon, and knocked the stock down to 36. There were rumors of a default by the company on the interest due Dec. 1, and when the market opened it was said that they had held a meeting it was immediately said that some startling announcement would follow.

It was said, however, that the directors had transacted nothing but routine business, and that the stockholders were unimpaired. It characterized the decline as a bearish market.

The orders in the aggregate were by no means large, but they were sufficient to give the brokers some excuse to bid higher.

The bears, "pingat," for Union Pacific,

were lively fashion this afternoon, and knocked the stock down to 36. There were rumors of a default by the company on the interest due Dec. 1, and when the market opened it was said that they had held a meeting it was immediately said that some startling announcement would follow.

It was said, however, that the directors had transacted nothing but routine business, and that the stockholders were unimpaired. It characterized the decline as a bearish market.

The orders in the aggregate were by no means large, but they were sufficient to give the brokers some excuse to bid higher.

The bears, "pingat," for Union Pacific,

were lively fashion this afternoon, and knocked the stock down to 36. There were rumors of a default by the company on the interest due Dec. 1, and when the market opened it was said that they had held a meeting it was immediately said that some startling announcement would follow.

It was said, however, that the directors had transacted nothing but routine business, and that the stockholders were unimpaired. It characterized the decline as a bearish market.

The orders in the aggregate were by no means large, but they were sufficient to give the brokers some excuse to bid higher.

The bears, "pingat," for Union Pacific,

were lively fashion this afternoon, and knocked the stock down to 36. There were rumors of a default by the company on the interest due Dec. 1, and when the market opened it was said that they had held a meeting it was immediately said that some startling announcement would follow.

It was said, however, that the directors had transacted nothing but routine business, and that the stockholders were unimpaired. It characterized the decline as a bearish market.

The orders in the aggregate were by no means large, but they were sufficient to give the brokers some excuse to bid higher.

The bears, "pingat," for Union Pacific,

were lively fashion this afternoon, and knocked the stock down to 36. There were rumors of a default by the company on the interest due Dec. 1, and when the market opened it was said that they had held a meeting it was immediately said that some startling announcement would follow.

It was said, however, that the directors had transacted nothing but routine business, and that the stockholders were unimpaired. It characterized the decline as a bearish market.

The orders in the aggregate were by no means large, but they were sufficient to give the brokers some excuse to bid higher.

The bears, "pingat," for Union Pacific, were lively fashion this afternoon, and knocked the stock down to 36. There were rumors of a default by the company on the interest due Dec. 1, and when the market opened it was said that they had held a meeting it was immediately said that some startling announcement would follow.